The Source for Workers' Compensation Insurance

Workplace Safety

The main objective of every CompSource safety consultant is to act as a resource to our policyholders to help eliminate workplace injuries and illness. In addition to the pain and suffering caused by on-the-job injuries, workplace accidents are expensive. On-the-job injuries result in direct costs to the employer in the form of medical expenses, lost wages, and decreased productivity. A good safety program is one of the most important business tools for preventing workplace accidents and reducing workers' compensation costs. CompSource Oklahoma's safety professionals help policyholders develop loss prevention strategies geared to the employer's own environment and loss experience. Their expertise can provide an effective way to control escalating costs and helps ensure a safer, more productive workplace. Best of all, our safety services are provided as a part of your benefits as a CompSource Oklahoma policyholder at no additional cost. Our safety consultants can provide an on-site review of your workplace to help you design a safety program addressing your organization's own unique needs.

At CompSource we combine our safety consultants' years of experience with state of the art technology to provide fast, efficient service to our policyholders. Our consultants can easily access policyholder information while out in the field and add updated information as needed even when traveling from job-site to job-site. Moreover, CompSource's consultants can provide a safety program that includes a comprehensive approach to loss control, using the latest tools to achieve the best results.

CompSource has the toolbox to help our customers build the safety program they need:

- On-site consultations and individualized analysis
- Ergonomic evaluations and training
- Safety training specific to your operations
- Industrial hygiene evaluations
- Safety video library *

Identifying Policyholders For Loss Prevention Services

CompSource has about 31,000 policyholders and some have higher needs for loss prevention than others. In order to adequately serve as many policyholders in need of our services as possible, our response priorities are:

- $4,000 annual net loss or three or more claims a year
- Premium size of account
- Referrals from CompSource claims adjusters, safety consultants, and underwriters
- Requests from policyholders and agents.

Communicating With You

As part of our services notification is provided to both policyholders and agents about:

- Insurability deficiencies
- Field service evaluations

You can request a visit from one of CompSource's safety consultants by calling 405-962-3751 or send us an email at safety@compsourceok.com. Please remember to include your policy number in your request. Policyholders are notified of selected safety appointment dates by post cards or phone calls. Agents are also notified.

* For safety video requests, go to our web site at www.compsourceok.com to view our video list and policy for checking out a video from our safety video library.

SAFE-T WINS

A Safety Program That Fits Your Needs

CompSource Oklahoma's safety professionals guide policyholders with our SAFE-T WINS approach. Our individualized, business-specific approach allows CompSource safety consultants to help your business:

S	Set safety goals. CompSource helps policyholders define their company's safety goals to meet their specific needs.
A	Assign responsibility. CompSource's safety consultants can guide the policyholder in defining responsibilities for every level from the top all the way down.
F	Formulate a written company safety manual. CompSource safety consultants provide guidance on how to develop a written manual that includes assignment of responsibilities, consequences for violations, general safety rules, specific safety rules for unique situations, and establishment of reporting procedures.
E	Eliminate hazards. CompSource assists employers in analyzing their individual loss experience data to identify and remove hazards in their workplace.
T	Train everyone in your organization. CompSource presents policyholders with various methods for training their employees about safety including classroom instruction, safety meetings, tailgate sessions, videos and one-on-one training.
W	Watch for safety awareness opportunities everywhere in your business. CompSource's safety professionals teach policyholders how to effectively create a safety awareness campaign through a comprehensive approach at multiple levels within an organization. A positive attitude toward safety can extend throughout a company and foster a commitment to safety.
I	Implement a medical system. CompSource can educate employers on how to establish first-aid and emergency care procedures and baseline screening for those employees who wear personal protective equipment to protect against hazards like respiratory or hearing loss.
N	Note and establish a safety related record keeping system including accident investigation. CompSource assists policyholders in recording and investigating accidents to identify trends and implement prevention methods.
S	Start a pro-active loss control program. CompSource teaches employers how to reduce costs through accident prevention and if an injury occurs, through managing the claim and providing transitional work for injured employees.

CompSource safety consultants can show you how to get started developing a loss prevention program aimed at the risks presented within your unique business. Our approach identifies the targets and shows you how to hit your safety marks. To request a visit from one of CompSource's safety consultants call 405-962-3751.
